听写正文 / QUESTIONS 01–30

P01 What's up, sunshine? I'm Coy Wire. This is CNN 10. Happy World Coconut Day.

P02 The coconut might be nature's Swiss army knife. Drink the water, eat the flesh, make milk, oil. Even the [01] _____ can be turned into rope, brushes, and other products.

P03 Talk about a fruit that's really cocoa nuts. Ten minutes. Big world. Let's crack into the news.

P04 We start with the end of an era. Lionel Messi, one of the greatest players to ever touch a soccer ball, is [02] _____ from Argentina's national team after more than two decades wearing his country's colors.

P05 The decision follows back-to-back heartbreaks for the soccer superstar. His father, Jorge, passed away shortly after Argentina's loss to Spain in this year's World Cup final. It's a bittersweet moment for fans in Argentina who've watched the homegrown hero rise to the [03] _____ of the sport over the years.

P06 There's no [04] _____. At every level, at a football level, at a personal level, and in the national team, he gave everything. He played the last World Cup 39 years old as if he were a young kid.

P07 He prepared himself as if he were a young kid, knowing what was happening to his father, too. He played it anyway for him. Absolute [05] _____. He left a lot for Argentina. He went through many periods of ups and downs.

P08 Messi was for me the greatest as a player and as a person, and his [06] _____ makes me sad. But on the other hand, it doesn't displease me because you have to retire at the top, as others did. We're going to miss him because we all love him.

P09 In a [07] _____ posted online, Messi thanked Argentine fans for the love they've shown and said he'll miss hearing them cheer from the pitch.

P10 But if you're already missing Messi, don't fret. The 39-year-old Messi will still be playing for [08] _____ MLS champions Inter Miami.

P11 Pop quiz hot shot.

P12 How many traditional colours make up the [09] _____?

P13 Two, five, seven or ten?

P14 If you said seven, go ahead and celebrate. The human eye perceives different [10] _____ on the visible spectrum as the colours red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. Remember the acronym ROYGBIV.

P15 What if we could not only see light, but also hear it? Turns out it's not as far-fetched as it seems, and one [11] _____ creator is taking the seriously bright idea to the next level by making music. Our John Sarlin got a front row seat to hear the unique instrument in action and learn all about the science that makes it work.

P16 Can you guess what [12] _____ this instrument to play music and stops it?

P17 So I made my own instrument that is controlled by light, as you can see here.

P18 You heard that right. This creator has [13] _____ for using tech and nature to create music.

P19 My name's Riley. I am a [14] _____. I just call it my light instrument.

P20 So how does it work?

P21 These [15] _____ basically sense light and how bright it is. That goes into my breadboard that I hand-soldered myself, which then goes into my Arduino, which is right here.

That goes into my computer, and I have Arduino code that turns all the stuff that's going into this cable, and it turns it into a bunch of numbers. And then I take all those numbers and I turn it into music.

P22 In other words? Light go into cable. Cable goes into box. Box turns it into electronics. Electronics turns it into sound.

P23 Riley says the idea came about after taking an [16] _____ building class using similar types of cables.

P24 It sounded awful. It was like, I need to build something kind of like this. That sounds better. I went home, coded, started soldering and building this. And then after [17] _____, I had the instrument.

P25 Since then, Riley says she has performed before mostly [18] _____, as well as posting videos of herself performing with her invention to her social media accounts.

P26 I think it's best live because once it is live, you can actually feel the [19] _____. You can feel the connection. I like to let the music speak for itself.

P27 Right now, the instrument is limited to the original box and Riley's computer. She says commentators have asked her how to have one to buy, asking donations to help her ongoing [20] _____.

P28 I'd love to find a way to make more light instruments because people really want to buy it. People really want to have one of their own. So I'd have to figure out how to make it look nice and how to make it not on a computer. So that's probably like a couple years, maybe some more science and thinking.

P29 Now to Chile, where some of Mother Nature's most dapper dressers are trading their tuxes for something high tech.

P30 My besties, researchers have developed special suits to help injured penguins recover from surgery. Penguins often arrive at [21] _____ after getting tangled in fishing nets, suffering wounds that can require stitches. But here's the problem.

P31 Penguins are incredibly flexible, and they can reach around and pick at those stitches. So with prudence, researchers at Chile's Humboldt Conservation Center helped develop a special fabric infused with microscopic particles of copper and zinc, which aid recovery times by preventing [22] _____ and promoting the formation of new blood vessels.

P32 This is a differentiator of this technology versus others, which allows [23] _____ to recover faster.

P33 We're working under the [24] _____ that this technology could also help penguin recovery. We have tested it in dogs, cats, mammals, but in penguins for the first time.

P34 And there's a uniquely Chilean twist here. Chile is home to roughly 80 percent of the world's remaining Humboldt penguin population and is the world's largest producer of copper. So one of the country's most famous [25] _____ is now helping protect some of its most famous wildlife. That's some heavy metal healing right there. Rock on.

P35 Have you ever found yourself crying, like while you're chopping an onion?Imagine doing that in space where tears can [26] _____. NASA astronaut Anil Menon shared a look into what cooking might look like hundreds of miles above Earth.

P36 You might even call it one giant leap for a meal prep.

P37 Tell us what's going on here.

P38 We got some onions in a [27] _____. We get very excited when we have fruits and vegetables up here. So one of the things that we really like to do is roast these onions. We do it with garlic as well when we get it.

P39 We have some [28] _____ right here and it's very simple. We've got our olive oil. Place the cut onions into the tin foil.

P40 Blasted onion. I like to do a layer of this oil first to help them stick while you're cutting the rest. Get them down there and package it up and then we'll put it over here in our food warmer for probably like 12, 24 hours because it's not a real oven, just a food warmer. But over time that will make a nice roasted onion. They'll even get caramelized as we go for even longer.

P41 Today's story, getting a 10 out of 10.

P42 One Transportation Security Administration officer might be getting some extra wagging rights. After being crowned the agency's top dog, the agency announced Bolt, a three-year-old German short-haired pointer from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport is the winner of their 2026 cutest canine contest. Although he's a federal officer, Bolt has no poker face.

P43 Look at those pearly whites. 85 dogs [29] _____. But Bolt fetched the most votes from the public and the hearts of many nationwide.

P44 But Bolt's job is far more than looking cute. He's part of a TSA Explosives Detection Team helping screen airports and sniff out [30] _____. That's one dog serving the looks and protecting our airports against threats, one bark at a time.

P45 All right, it is almost time to go. But first, congrats to our Your Word Wednesday winner. Our friends at Heritage High School in White House, Tennessee, Coach Bradley, you all submitted prudence, the ability to use good judgment and self-discipline to avoid unnecessary risks.

P46 Thank you for making us smarter today. And speaking of Your Word Wednesday, I got a shout out here to Miss Frasick and all of my friends at Flood Middle School in Stratford, Connecticut. They sent me this fresh stack.

P47 It says Your Word Wednesday. Thank you so much for this. And next up, shout out goes to Miss Amy at Marshall Middle School in the Plains, Virginia.

P48 Thank you for all the kind letters. We are looking forward to spending another season with you. Remember, curiosity helps us understand the world.

P49 Kindness helps us change it. So go ask a question, make somebody smile and shine on sunshine. I'm Coy Wire and we are CNN 10.
