听写正文 / QUESTIONS 01–30

P01 What's up, sunshine? I'm Coy Wire. This is CNN 10, where we give you the what letting you decide what to think. Today, two high stakes meetings at the White House that could shape overseas wars.

P02 A swamp, a mountain, and a World War II battlefield all earning one of the world's highest honors. And BTS, taking a stand against the Grammys, all that and more. Your CNN 10 starts now.

P03 We begin in Washington, D.C., where the Oval Office played host to back-to-back meetings that could influence conflicts stretching from Eastern Europe to the Middle East. On Tuesday, U.S. President Donald Trump hosted Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky at the White House as Russia continued launching heavy attacks across Ukraine. The two leaders discussed the U.S. giving Ukraine Patriot missile defense systems, which are designed to intercept incoming missiles, as well as the possibility of reviving [01] _____ to end the war now in its fourth year.

P04 Later that day, President Trump hosted Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu for talks on the expanding conflict in the Middle East. The meeting came as Netanyahu campaigns for re-election back home. While relations between the two leaders have appeared more strained in recent months, officials from both sides described the talks as [02] _____.

P05 What do a supersized swamp, Greek gods, and a famous World War II battlefield have in common?

P06 They all just earned one of the world's biggest honors. UNESCO's World Heritage List includes places considered so culturally or naturally important that they're viewed as treasures belonging to all of humanity, not just one country. The designation often brings additional [03] _____ aimed at protecting sites from threats like climate change, pollution, and over-tourism.

P07 This week, the committee announced 25 new additions. That includes the beaches of Normandy, in France. On June 6, 1944, during World War II, better known as D-Day, more than 150,000 Allied troops stormed those shores in the largest seaborne invasion ever, helping begin the [04] _____ of Western Europe from Nazi Germany.

P08 Greece's Mount Olympus also made the list. Ancient Greeks believed it was home to Zeus and the Olympian gods, while today's scientists value it for its extraordinary [05] _____ with thousands of plant and animal species. And right here in Georgia, Okefenokee National Wildlife Refuge earned World Heritage status as well.

P09 North America's largest freshwater swamp stretches across roughly 700 square miles, nearly the size of Houston, and provides [06] _____ for black bears, sandhill cranes, and thousands of alligators. The newcomers now join legendary sites like Machu Picchu, Taj Mahal, and Australia's Great Barrier Reef.

P10 One of the most popular bands on Earth is sitting out music's biggest award, K-Pop phenom BTS says it won't submit its music for Grammy consideration after the Recording Academy created a new [07] _____ recognizing Asian pop music performance.

P11 The group says it believes music should be judged by its artistry, not by language or [08] _____. Some fans argue it would effectively box out Asian artists from the Grammy's biggest awards, like Album of the Year. BTS has previously been nominated for five Grammys, but has not won yet.

P12 This year, the group reunited and released a new album after completing their [09] _____. The CEO of the Grammys told CNN he is disappointed, but said, quote, as a music creator, I understand and respect their decision, unquote. The new Asian pop music performance category will debut at the 2027 Grammy Awards in February.

P13 What do you think? Do categories like these create more [10] _____ or do they risk separating artists who should compete together? Hit pause and discuss.

P14 Ten-second trivia. Which of these comic [11] _____ was founded first? DC, Marvel, Dark Horse or Image?

P15 If you said DC, you're Superman.

P16 DC was launched as National Allied Publications in 1935, but Marvel wasn't far behind, launching in 1939.

P17 Comic-Con 2026 has officially wrapped and once again San Diego transformed into Superhero Central. Since 1970, Comic-Con has grown from a gathering of a few hundred fans into one of the biggest [12] _____ events on the planet, attracting artists, actors, filmmakers and fans from around the globe.

P18 This year, legendary [13] _____ Jeff Smith, the creator of the beloved Bone series, received one of the comic's highest honors, induction into the Eisner Hall of Fame. We had the chance to catch up with him to hear how a love of drawing at a very young age changed his life forever.

P19 Between like five and nine was when I really started to understand to get into comics.

P20 The art form, the pictures and the word balloons and how the [14] _____ as you went from panel to panel, how it became real, how it would come alive. I was fascinated by that. Of course, the characters had a lot to do with it too.

P21 I knew that Charles Schulz created Snoopy. I knew that Mickey Mouse was made up by Walt Disney. He was on [15] _____ every Sunday night.

P22 And I wanted to make up a [16] _____ because I just love cartoons. I don't know why cartoons spoke to me, but they did. They look to me kind of the way dreams look to me.

P23 All the comics that I really loved were written and drawn by the same person. It just didn't occur to me that I would do it any other way, right? The first character I really kind of like started drawing more than once was this little guy called Fone Bone. His name was Fone Bone.

P24 This is what he looked like the first time I drew him. Then he had his cranky cousin who was a phony Fone Bone. And then the Smiley Bone was kind of like a cross between Goofy and Ed Norton on the honeymooners.

P25 I was part of a [17] _____ that really wanted to do our own characters and tell our own stories and be more like authors than just a penciler. This is a golden age happening and it's kind of underground, but it's open. They're self-publishers. They're smaller boutique publishers. This is an opportunity. This is somewhere I can do the comic exactly as I want it.

P26 I'm just [18] _____ myself. And if it doesn't work, it's no big deal. I'll try.

P27 Every two months I put out a new [19] _____ as like a 24 page comic book, Black and White. Bone and the comic book world have pretty high numbers. I was within like 5,000 copies a month of back.

P28 No books were like that. You know, we did not have like all ages books in the 90s. It was really like these comics are aimed at teens and older. And when Bone comes out, it's like a [20] _____.

P29 The results spoke for themselves. Bone wasn't just a hit comic. It was a business.

P30 It took 12 years and it grew not only in story, but in [21] _____. I mean, I was really getting to know a lot of people and people loved it. I was lightning in a bottle. Everything came together.

P31 Stores got behind it, which was very deliberate. Like Jeff Smith did a lot of work to make that happen. It wasn't an accident. He put together a [22] _____ to self-publish that book.

P32 So now you've got one more hero self-publisher who's talking about his experience doing that. Now that's information I can apply to my own practice. And I have a lot of [23] _____ for Jeff Smith and what he's done.

P33 You spend so much time with that story. I mean, from your conception to outlines, thumbnails, [24] _____, pencils, tight pencils, inking, coloring, lettering. You live with this story and if you don't love it or understand how much time it's hard.

P34 But the path to success is rarely easy and far from a straight line. At points, Jeff seemed ready to call it quits until he received some [25] _____ from an unlikely place.

P35 What saved me was the librarians. We didn't know it, but the libraries had been starting to stock there. And they noticed the kids were [26] _____. The librarians started calling Scholastic and said, you've got to publish this book.

P36 So Scholastic called us. And we've been approached by publishers before, but they didn't know what to do with it. But Scholastic says we do know what to do with it. We're going to publish it as a children's book and we're going to put it on the [27] _____ right next to Harry Potter.

P37 But behind every great creator, there's a partner helping bring these characters to life. And none of this would be possible without Jeff's longtime partner, Vijaya.

P38 She's been not only my best friend and my partner, but she's also been one of the people who mostly encouraged me to do this. She handles all the business, the agents, the [28] _____. To do something this difficult and personal, you need to have somebody on your side.

P39 I don't think there was a chance I could have succeeded on this level had she not been fully vested.

P40 Despite selling more than 10 million books in dozens of countries worldwide, Jeff says he's not done. He's continuing to work on new projects, but says it never gets old to hear that his first drawings are earning new fans every day.

P41 She actually drew this. Isn't that amazing?

P42 The part that's kind of hard for me to take in sometimes is that this book, when they were a kid, had a real effect on it. And it reminds me of when I was that age and I was reading Peanuts and Uncle Scrooge comics, the effect that that had on me.

P43 So it's really wonderful to take in and oh, gosh, it's really a good feeling.

P44 Today's story, getting a 10 out of 10, a really awesome tradition at one of the NFL's oldest stadiums. Some NFL players drive luxury cars to work.

P45 Green Bay Packers players, sometimes they ride bikes borrowed from kids. The Packers opened their [29] _____ with one of the league's most fun traditions, the dream drive. Every summer, young fans line up outside Lambeau Field hoping a player chooses their bike for a ride to practice.

P46 I got to do this when I played for the Buffalo Bills and we had some crossover practices there. It was awesome. From Lambeau to the practice field, sometimes the shortest ride can create [30] _____ that last a lifetime.

P47 And get this, they've been doing it for more than 60 years dating back to legendary coach Vince Lombardi. Now that is how you roll to the football season.

P48 All right, before we go, we have a shout out to Mr. Johnson and all of our warriors at Woods Bend Youth Development Center in West Liberty, Kentucky rise up.

P49 And we're also showing some appreciation to Mr. Lee at P25R in Staten Island, New York. Thank you for hanging out with us this summer. You rock.

P50 Two more Summer Friday episodes before we get back to our Monday through Friday jam on August 17th.

P51 Wherever life takes you, be curious, be kind and remember you are more powerful than you know. I'm Coy Wire and we are CNN 10.
